An evening of compelling music from the rich Andalusian heritage; an exotic blend of Sephardic, Arabic and Spanish songs performed within the context of Flamenco and Mid Eastern rhythms.

"His utter ease is more likely the product of the same self-assurance and relaxation that make him comfortable singing in a dozen different languages, playing guitar in a multitude of styles and negotiating more than a half-millennium's worth of Sephardic cultural history."

—George Robinson, JEWISH WEEK

This is a fundraising event for the EAJL Scholarship Fund which supports students in need of expert training who have limited access to sufficient finance. An appeal will be made for donations.
